“Optimizing Accuracy and Generalizability of Prognostic Models: An Overview and Real Life Example”

This talk will cover:

- The difference between identifying risk factors and estimating overall risk
- How to evaluate the accuracy and generalizability of any prognostic model based on the characteristics of the data used and the model output, not its internal design
- Dr. Justice will walk through a detailed, real world example of a highly generalizable prognostic model (The VACS Index)