The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE
Physicians, Fellows, Residents and Medical Students

NEEDS ASSESSMENT
Immune checkpoint inhibition is becoming an increasingly common therapy for patients with cancer. While most patients receiving checkpoint inhibitors stand to experience at least one if not more toxicities, the awareness of radiologists regarding the imaging manifestations of immune-related adverse events is lacking.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:
1. Review cancer immunotherapy drugs in clinical use.
2. Discuss toxicity related to immune checkpoint inhibitors.
3. Detail imaging manifestations of pneumonitis related to immune checkpoint inhibition.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT
The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
