Dr. Sten Vermund, Dean, Yale School of Public and his extensive team of public health researchers offer arts organizations, venues, staff, and boards direction on how to reopen through the lens of public health.

This statewide convening offers clarity, practical advice, and an opportunity for you to ask questions related to your reopening. Public Health scholars guiding your decisions on when and how to open, will lead to consumer confidence and ensure success and long-term viability. Supplemental meetings to follow.
