

Cloud-Based Inventory Management Systems Are Essential for Delivering Post-Exposure Prophylaxis to Rape Victims in the Eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo

Join us for a conversation about how gender-based violence is used as a weapon of war, why access to post-exposure prophylaxis (PEP) kits comprised of antiretroviral medication, antibiotics and emergency contraception are limited and what we can do about it.

Tuesday, November 11th
The Anlyan Center (TAC), N203
6:30-7:30pm
Refreshments provided

Dr. Givano Kashemwa, MD, MPH is the Global Strategies Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) Program Manager and a Congolese physician. He represents Global Strategies at the local and national level and advocates for the highest standard of care for women and children in DRC.

Cindy McWhorter, BS is the Global Strategies Director of International Programs. Cindy oversees the Global Strategies programs in the DRC, India, Liberia and Zimbabwe.

Global Strategies is a 501c3 organization that empowers communities in the most neglected areas of the world to improve the lives of women and children through health care.

Co-Sponsored by the YSPH Global Health Concentration and Yale Global Health Initiative