

SYMPOSIUM

in honor of

Joseph A. Madri, PhD, MD,
Professor Emeritus of Pathology

Friday, April 28, 2017
2:00 to 5:00 p.m.
Brady Memorial Laboratory Auditorium
310 Cedar Street
New Haven, CT

Reception to follow in Brady Rotunda, 5:00 -6:30 p.m.

Welcome and Introduction – 2:00 to 2:10 pm

Jon S. Morrow, MD, PhD, Raymond Yesner Professor of Pathology, Professor of Molecular, Cellular and Developmental Biology, Chair and Chief of Pathology, Yale School of Medicine

Laura R. Ment, MD – 2:10 to 2:40 pm

Professor of Pediatrics (Neurology), Yale School of Medicine
"Preterm Birth, Language and the Developing Brain"

Dita Gratzinger, MD, PhD – 2:45 to 3:15 pm

Assistant Professor, Stanford University School of Medicine
"Vascular at the Core: Mapping the Microenvironment, Hematopathology Style"

Olivier N. Kocher, MD, PhD – 3:20 to 3:50 pm

Associate Professor of Pathology, Harvard Medical School
"The HDL Receptor SR-BI and its Adaptor Protein PDZK1"

Keynote Speaker – 4:00 to 4:50 pm

Mina J. Bissell, PhD

Distinguished Scientist, Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory
"Why Don't We Get More Cancer: The Critical Role of ECM and Microenvironment in Malignancy and Dormancy"

Comments from Joe – 4:50 to 5:00 pm

Joseph A. Madri, PhD, MD, Professor Emeritus of Pathology