ACCREDITATION
The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE
Faculty, residents, students and staff involved in education of health care professional trainees.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT
There is an important need for general internists to understand the value of community level primary care assessment for policy and health planning, and the advantages of community-based participatory research methods for studying health systems.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:
1. Review the morbidity and mortality of those individuals who sleep on Boston’s streets.
2. Share the experiences of a team-based model for the delivery of integrated medical and psychiatric care in patient homes.
3. Literature assessment: is housing health?

DESIGNATION STATEMENT
The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
