

Yale General Internal Medicine Educational Strategies & Faculty Development Meeting

“Training Internists to Provide Comprehensive HIV and Primary Care”

Lydia Barakat, MD
Associate Professor of Medicine
Infectious Diseases
Yale School of Medicine

Dana Dunne, MD
Associate Professor of Medicine
Infectious Diseases
Yale School of Medicine

Michael Green, MD
Professor of Medicine
General Medicine
Yale School of Medicine

Date: Thursday, October 17, 2019, 12:00pm - 1:00pm

Location: The Anlyan Center, 2nd Floor, Room N203 (TAC, 300 Cedar Street)

Yale General Internal Medicine Faculty Seminar

Course Director/Host: Patrick G. O'Connor, MD, MPH, 203-688-6532

There is no corporate or commercial support for this activity

This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut

ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Faculty, residents, students and staff involved in education of health care professional trainees.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

There is an important need for general internists to understand the value of community level primary care assessment for policy and health planning, and the advantages of community-based participatory research methods for studying health systems.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

1. Understand current trends in the HIV epidemic.
2. Appreciate the magnitude and causes of the looming HIV workforce shortage.
3. Realize the role HIV tracks play in teaching internists to provide primary and HIV care.
4. Evaluate an education program, using multiple outcome levels.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 *AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)*TM. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

FACULTY DISCLOSURES

Drs. Barakat, Dunne and Green have no conflicts of interest to disclose. Dr. Patrick G. O'Connor, Course Director, has no conflict of interest to disclose.

It is the policy of Yale School of Medicine, Continuing Medical Education, to ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all its educational programs. All faculty participating as speakers in these programs are required to disclose any relevant financial relationship(s) they (or spouse or partner) have with a commercial interest that benefits the individual in any financial amount that has occurred within the past 12 months; and the opportunity to affect the content of CME about the products or services of the commercial interests. The Center for Continuing Medical Education will ensure that any conflicts of interest are resolved before the educational activity occurs.