NEEDS ASSESSMENT

Molecular Imaging is undergoing rapid transformation with development of new exciting diagnostic and therapeutic agents. Molecular Imaging Clinical and Translational Research Laboratory is a research branch of nuclear medicine section with a mission to deliver most advanced molecular imaging and therapy care to Yale New Haven System patients with focus on molecular imaging theranostics and therapy practice and education. This conference series will be dedicated to translation of novel molecular imaging and therapy research into clinical practice.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Knowledgeable about planning, performing, and interpreting neuroendocrine tumor imaging
- Knowledgeable about neuroendocrine tumor clinical trials and clinical Practice
- Knowledgeable about the role of molecular imaging in the evaluation of neuroendocrine tumors

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
