

Squire J. Booker, PhD

Chemistry / Biochemistry and Molecular Biology

Penn State University

The Biosynthesis of Lipoic Acid: A Saga of Death, Destruction, and Rebirth

My research program involves understanding how radicals are used in enzyme catalysis. This lecture will focus on the biosynthesis of lipoic acid, which involves attaching sulfur atoms to unactivated carbon centers.

Monday, February 3, 2020

BASS 305 (Broadcast in SHM C103)

3:45 Tea 4:00 Seminar

Host: Enrique De La Cruz

Supported by the Mrs. Hepsa Ely Silliman Memorial Fund

Contact: shanna.dickinson@yale.edu