ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Medical Students
Residents and Fellows
Faculty Physicians
Allied Health Providers

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

Physician burnout is a product of a pervasive set of problems including challenges with the narrative of medicine, poor self-care skills and an overbearing and demanding medical system. The solution requires a combination of both systemic and cultural change within institutions and individuals taking personal ownership of burnout risk and develop coping skills and resilience.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

1. To gain a new perspective on the problem of physician burnout
2. To recognize where the narrative of medicine is out of sync with the realities of medicine
3. To identify specific strategies for improving levels of self-care and nurturing
4. To understand what it means to take personal ownership of burnout risk

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
