

Spring Medical Library Workshops for Public Health Students

Accessing Public Health Information without Academic Library Subscriptions

Accessing Public Health Information without Academic Library Subscriptions

WHEN:

- Monday, May 16, 4-5pm (virtual)
- Wednesday, May 18, 10-11am (virtual)
- Friday, May 20, 1-2pm (in-person at the medical library)

Congratulations to the class of 2022! Soon you'll need to practice evidence-based public health without Yale's subscriptions to journals and databases. In this workshop, we'll talk about how to find and read the literature you need in a world where publisher paywalls can present a challenge. Soon-to-be graduates are welcome from any school, but our examples focus on public health information.

Kayla Del Biondo & Kate Nyhan

Public Health Liaison Librarian Team

Harvey Cushing/John Hay Whitney Medical Library

PublicHealth.Librarians@yale.edu

Finding and Reading Public Health Literature as an Intern

Finding and Reading Public Health Literature as an Intern

WHEN:

- Wednesday June 1, 5-6pm (virtual)
- Friday June 3, 12-1pm (virtual)

One-third of YSPH students preparing to take on a summer internship indicated that they would like more training in how to conduct a literature review. Cue the public health librarians to the rescue! Join us on the dates/times listed below to learn how to find and read public health literature so that you can make evidence-based recommendations to your host organization throughout your internship experience.