

Andreas Martin, Ph.D.

Department of Molecular and Cell Biology

University of California, Berkeley

Asymmetry in Structure and Function: The 26S Proteasome and its Mechanisms for Protein Substrate Degradation

Our research focuses on understanding the structure and function of the 26S proteasome and its detailed mechanisms for the ubiquitin-dependent protein degradation. Furthermore, we are interested in the mechanochemistry of molecular machines and how they convert the energy from ATP-hydrolysis into mechanical force used for instance in protein unfolding the translocation.

Monday, December 9, 2013

Hope 110

3:45 Tea 4:00 Seminar

Host: Mark Hochstrasser

Supported by the Mrs. Hepsa Ely Silliman Memorial Fund