Ariunzaya Saranjav, MBChB
Mongolia Health Initiative

Christina Parisi, MPH
Yale School of Public Health

Luke Davis, MD, MAS
Yale School of Public Health, EMD, CMIPS

Ariunzaya Saranjav, MBChB, is a medical doctor and public health specialist coordinating the Zero TB Initiative at the Mongolia Health Initiative. Christina Parisi, MPH, is an epidemiologist and doctoral student whose work uses infectious disease surveillance data to design evidence-based public health interventions and policies. Luke Davis, MD, MAS, is Associate Professor of Epidemiology and Medicine, whose work applies implementation science to improve the quality of TB care in low- and middle-income countries.