Negotiating Institutional Transformation: International and Comparative Approaches to Justice in Environmental Protection

The 2020 Global Environmental Justice Conference explores the difficulty of integrating justice as a priority in domestic and international institutions, even as it has emerged as a focal point in environmental movements worldwide. The conference will feature leaders from the global south as well as experts from a variety of disciplines including jurists, legal scholars, diplomats, economists, and activists.

Must Diplomats Choose Between Promoting Justice and Their National Interests?

Reflections of a multilateral negotiator

Jennifer Haverkamp

Graham Family Director; Graham Sustainability Institute, University of Michigan; Professor from Practice, Michigan Law School, University of Michigan

Role of Justice in UN Institutions

Daniel Bodansky

Regents’ Professor, Sandra Day O’Connor College of Law, Arizona State University

Rights and Responsibilities in Relation to the Natural World: Reframing conceptions of justice

Catherine Iorns

Professor of Law, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

David Cordero-Heredia

Associate Professor of Law and Director of the Human Rights Centre of the Pontifical Catholic University of Ecuador (PUCE)

Environmental Defenders: The role of NGO’s in human rights conflicts

Justice Antonio Herman Benjamin

Justice at the National High Court of Brazil (STJ)

Alfred Brownell

Executive Director, Green Advocates; Tom & Andi Bernstein Visiting Human Rights Fellow; Yale Law School

Featuring the award-winning documentary Mossville: When Great Trees Fall, followed by a post-screening conversation with members of the creative team.

Supported by The Graciela Chichilnisky Environmental Fund in Honor of Natasha Chichilnisky-Heal