

Reimagining Biopharma: Fireside Chat with Vivek Ramaswamy, CEO, Roivant Sciences

Vivek Ramaswamy (YLS '13) is on a mission to rescue shelved drugs. His company, Roivant Sciences, advances the clinical development of promising therapies that have been deprioritized due to strategic or bureaucratic reasons rather than their scientific merit.

At the age of 31 he has already raised over a billion dollars, spearheading the largest biotech IPOs of the past two years. And he's just getting started.

Join us for a candid discussion moderated by professor Howard Forman with Vivek and other Yale alumni about the future of healthcare and the biopharma industry.
