Course Director: Richard L. Edelson, M.D.

ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE

The target audience for the Dermatology Grand Rounds is composed of attending physicians, residents, fellows, medical students, nurses, and other health care providers.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

The incidence of melanoma continues to rise annually: An estimated 192,310 new cases of melanoma (including melanoma in situ) will be diagnosed in the U.S. in 2019. Ultraviolet (UV) exposure is considered to be a major risk factor, but not all melanoma occur on sun exposed skin. It is thus important for dermatologists to understand potential risk factors of melanoma, prevent its development and recognize early melanoma.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

1. Understand melanoma biology and risk factors
2. Be familiar with dermoscopic findings of melanoma, including amelanotic melanoma and acral melanoma³.
3. Understand the potential of non-UV genotoxic environmental factors
