ACCREDITATION:

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE:

ObGyn attending physicians, house staff/fellows, medical students, nurses, PA's, community Ob/Gyn's, residents, midwives, nurses and researchers.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT:

Gynecologists and other women's healthcare providers are uniquely positioned to address women's HIV prevention needs but some require further training in how to adequately address HIV prevention in women, including with PrEP. A more complete appreciation of women's needs for PrEP and challenges in implementing PrEP in clinical and service settings will give clinicians better tools to address women's HIV prevention needs. This skillset is especially critical to helping women overcome health disparities.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

At the end of this presentation, attendees will be able to:

1. Identify women's unique needs in terms of HIV prevention;
2. Describe the SAVA Syndemic in women and evaluate opportunities for intervention; and
3. To explore the potential and challenges for PrEP for women in several key implementation contexts.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
