“Endoscopy education and evaluation: It’s more than just a numbers game”

Larissa Muething, MD
Chief Fellow in Gastroenterology and Hepatology
University of Colorado

Tuesday, November 19, 2019
TAC S-247, 300 Cedar Street
5:00 - 6:00 pm

Host: Loren Laine, MD

There is no corporate support for this activity. Accreditation: The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians. Target Audience: YSM faculty, fellows, and staff, and local GI physicians. Designation Statement: The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity. Needs assessment: All faculty and fellows in the department of Digestive Disease participate in endoscopy education and evaluation. How to best assess fellow competency in endoscopy and to assess fellow readiness for independent practice remains unknown. Objectives: Describe move in medical education toward competency based assessment. Review current literature on competency based assessment in endoscopy. Discuss use of quality metrics and efficiency indices in endoscopy assessment. Faculty Disclosures: L. Muething - None. L. Laine – None. It is the policy of Yale School of Medicine, Continuing Medical Education, to ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all its educational programs. All faculty participating as speakers in these programs are required to disclose any relevant financial relationship(s) they (or spouse or partner) have with a commercial interest that benefits the individual in any financial amount that has occurred within the past 12 months; and the opportunity to affect the content of CME about the products or services of the commercial interests. The Center for Continuing Medical Education will ensure that any conflicts of interest are resolved before the educational activity occurs. This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut.