

A One Health Analysis of Food Safety &
Security, Antimicrobial Resistance, and Climate Change in the 21st Century

Laura H. Kahn, MD, MPH, MPP

Co-Founder, One Health Initiative and Lecturer,
Princeton University

Dr. Kahn is a physician, policy researcher, educator, and author. In 2006, she published Confronting Zoonoses, Linking Human and Veterinary Medicine in the CDC journal Emerging Infectious Diseases that helped launch the One Health Initiative, a global effort to promote the One Health concept that human, animal, plant, environmental, and ecosystem health are linked. In 2014, she received a Presidential Award for Meritorious Service from the American Association of Public Health Physicians, and in 2016, the American Veterinary Epidemiology Society (AVES) awarded her with their highest honor for her work in One Health: the K.F. Meyer-James H. Steele Gold Head Cane Award.

In-person at 47 College St., Room 106B and online via Zoom

Monday, March 28, 2022
12 to 1 PM

Register:

bit.ly/ClimateHealth_Kahn
