
Qualitative Methods Innovation Program

Co-sponsored by the R3EDI: Rigorous, Rapid and Relevant Evidence aDaptation and Implementation to Ending the HIV Epidemic Implementation Science Hub, Center for Interdisciplinary Research on AIDS, Yale School of Public Health (YSPH); Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, YSPH; and the Yale Scholars in Implementation Science Career Development Program, Yale School of Medicine

“Using Rapid Qualitative Research Techniques to Identify Factors Impacting the Pace of Implementation”

Traci Abraham, PhD

Assistant Professor
Department of Psychiatry
University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences

Research Health Scientist & Medical Anthropologist
Center for Mental Healthcare & Outcomes Research
Central Arkansas Veterans Healthcare System

Wednesday, November 3, 2021

12:00 - 1:00 pm ET

In person and via Zoom

Location: 60 College St, LEPH 105

Zoom Link: Request from william.tootlejr@yale.edu

Dr. Traci H Abraham earned her PhD in medical anthropology from the University of Connecticut. She completed an advanced fellowship in health services research and development at the Center for Mental Health Outcomes and Research (CeMHOR), U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. Dr. Abraham currently holds a dual appointment as a Research Health Investigator at the CeMHOR and as Assistant Professor at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences (UAMS). Her research at the VA focuses on adapting, implementing, and evaluating behavioral health interventions. She specializes in translating qualitative data into meaningful improvements to healthcare and using qualitative research to adapt behavioral health interventions to specific contexts and at-risk populations to increase access to patient-centered care. She is affiliated with the Center for Health Services Research and the Translational Research Institute at UAMS and is involved in efforts to expand institutional and community capacity to engage in community-based participatory research.

Please contact William Tootle at william.tootlejr@yale.edu if you would like to attend via Zoom.