

Allergy and Immunology Grand Rounds

Presented by

Yale School of Medicine - Department of Internal Medicine
Section of Rheumatology, Allergy & Immunology

“Meat Allergy”

Matthew Balanda, MA, MSN, FNP-BC, RN
Center for Allergy, Asthma and Immunology

Date: November 15, 2019

Location: The Anlyan Center (TAC) Room S-447

8:30 am – 9:30am

Course Director/Host: Dr. Insoo Kang

There is no corporate support for this activity

This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut

ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Attending Physicians, House staff, Fellows and Medical students

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

Discuss the origins of meat allergy as we currently understand the disease, including a review of some of the relevant studies that have elucidated the pathways and mediators involved in exacerbations of this disease. Discuss diagnosis and management of meat allergy as it pertains to the practicing allergist.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. The audience will be able to derive the diagnosis of meat allergy from key temporal patient symptoms.
2. The audience will be able to utilize appropriate diagnostic testing to confirm the diagnosis of meat allergy.
3. The audience will be able to develop an appropriate management plan including routine monitoring, education, and taking into considering special considerations that must be managed appropriately for this patient population.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

FACULTY DISCLOSURES

Speaker: Matthew Balanda

Course Director: Insoo Kang, M.D., Ph.D. - NONE

It is the policy of Yale School of Medicine, Continuing Medical Education, to ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all its educational programs. All faculty participating as speakers in these programs are required to disclose any relevant financial relationship(s) they (or spouse or partner) have with a commercial interest that benefits the individual in any financial amount that has occurred within the past 12 months; and the opportunity to affect the content of CME about the products or services of the commercial interests. The Center for Continuing Medical Education will ensure that any conflicts of interest are resolved before the educational activity occurs.