ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Attending physicians, house staff/fellows, medical students, nurses, physician assistants.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

Lung cancer remains the leading cause of cancer death for adults in the United States. The recent update in lung cancer screening criteria will continue to increase the amount of lung cancers diagnosed. It is important for the pulmonologist to be aware of updates in screening and recent treatment advances, particularly related both to management of advanced disease and oligometastatic disease.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this talk, individuals will:

1. Review updated epidemiology for lung cancer
2. Discuss new screening guidelines for lung cancer and their potential impact

3. Examine new and burgeoning treatments for lung cancer

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for I AMA PRA Category I Credit(s)TM. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

FACULTY DISCLOSURES

Richard Matthay, MD, Course Director – No conflicts of interest
