“Reflections on Race and Medicine”

There is no corporate support for this activity

This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut

ACCREDITATION:

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE:

Attending physicians, house staff, fellows, medical students, PA's

NEEDS ASSESSMENT:

For many health conditions, African Americans bear a disproportionate burden of disease, death, and disability. Clinicians need to know about the factors causing and perpetuating health disparities among African Americans, understand the benefits provided by African American health care providers, and have knowledge of the challenges faced by African American health care providers.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

1. Expand awareness of how social/economic factors contribute to health disparities among the African American population
2. Explain how physician bias and patient mistrust perpetuate health disparities
3. Explore both the challenges faced by African American providers and the benefits of African American providers in the medical setting

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
