NEEDS ASSESSMENT

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

1. Define XR and provide examples of how XR has been used for health and education.
2. Present findings from our non-randomized controlled trial of Invite Only VR: A Vaping Prevention Game, a virtual reality vaping prevention game for adolescents.
3. Describe the play4REAL XR's lab experience working with XR, including bringing the technology to schools.
4. Discuss both the optimism and caution about the potential for XR in health and education.
