“Pathologic, Molecular & Genomic Characterization of Adrenocortical Carcinoma”

Thursday, March 16, 2017

12:30 p.m.

Fitkin Amphitheater – LMP 1094

Host: Manju Prasad, M.D.

There is no corporate or grant support for this activity. This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut.

ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Attending physicians, researchers, house staff, fellows, residents, medical students, nurses.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

The talk will focus on the pathology and genomic alterations in adrenal cortical carcinoma, and how these alterations contribute to disease pathogenesis and outcome. In addition, a focus on pathologic evaluation and clinical translation will be presented.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Understand the genomic landscape of adrenal cortical carcinoma.
- Understand how molecular information can be used for diagnosis of adrenal cortical neoplasms.
- Understand how molecular information can be used for prognostication of adrenal cortical carcinomas.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
