Scholarship Instructions and Guidelines

Scholarship applications for the 2024-2025 Academic Year may be submitted beginning February 1, 2024. All sections of the application must be completed, and proof of income must be attached. Proof of income must include W2s from 2023. If no W2s are available, please speak with the Executive Director to determine what other proofs of income might be acceptable.

Award letters will be sent to families in mid spring and scholarships will go into effect July 1, 2024.

Guidelines are as follows:

- Scholarship applications will be considered in the order they are received, so families are encouraged to submit applications as early as possible. The earliest date to submit an application is February 1st.
- Scholarships will be awarded only to School of Medicine Faculty, Staff or Students who qualify.
- Gross Annual Household Income must be below $131,000.
- Priority is given as follows:
 - Immediate priority is given to Bodel families awarded scholarships during the 2023-2024 Academic Year.
 - Secondary priority is given to currently enrolled families who were not awarded a scholarship in previous years.
 - Third priority is given to families new to Bodel.
 - Within each of the above groups, priority is given first to single parent families and then to dual income families (two parents, both employed so that no one is available to care for child(ren))
 - If funding is still available after all of the above categories of applications have been considered, single income families with one parent at home will be considered.
