“Pandora’s Legacy: Anatomy and Knowledge in Ancient Medicine”

There is no corporate support for this activity

This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut

Thursday, December 3, 2015 - 4:00PM-5:15PM

Brady Auditorium, Room B131 Lauder Hall

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

At the conclusion of this talk, the attendees will be able to:

1. Improve our understanding of historical views of the female reproductive body.
2. Create a framework for thinking about the cultural meaning of female anatomy.
3. Use the visual/material record to improve our understanding of women's suffering and self-care in the pre-modern world

NEEDS ASSESSMENT:

Understanding influential historical views of the female body, especially the uterus and its faculties, can help us engage critically with our own assumptions about pregnancy, female anatomy, physiology, and reproduction.

ACCREDITATION:

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

CME CREDIT:

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

FACULTY DISCLOSURES:

It is the policy of Yale School of Medicine, Continuing Medical Education, to ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all its educational programs. All faculty participating as speakers in these programs are required to disclose any relevant financial relationship(s) they (or spouse or partner) have with a commercial interest that benefits the individual in any financial amount that has occurred within the past 12 months; and the opportunity to affect the content of CME about the products or services of the commercial interests. The Center for Continuing Medical Education will ensure that any conflicts of interest are resolved before the educational activity occurs.
