

Yale SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
Program for Biomedical Ethics

Presents

Intensive Seminar on Medical Ethics

Farr Curlin, MD

*Josiah C. Trent Professor of Medical Humanities; Co-Director,
Theology, Medicine and Culture Initiative
Duke University*

Christopher O. Tollefsen, PhD

*College of Arts and Sciences Distinguished
Professor of Philosophy
University of South Carolina*

This seminar's goal is to encourage medical trainees to think deeply and systematically about central bioethical issues. Contemporary bioethics typically draws upon the conventional frameworks of principlism and consequentialism. This seminar will go further to explore a framework for thinking about bioethics based on contemporary philosophy derived from classical Greek thought, including that of Aristotle and Hippocrates. While exploring a broad range of current bioethical issues, participants will be invited to consider what sort of practice medicine is, whether it has a rational end or goal, and what difference these considerations make for the doctor-patient relationship.

Saturday, September 10, 2016

7:30 AM – 7:00 PM

Sterling Hall of Medicine

Beaumont Room – SHM L-221A

333 Cedar Street, New Haven

For more information:

203.737.5943 or karen.kolb@yale.edu

Online application:

<http://goo.gl/forms/RV8mrnxAEGupl45i2>

Applications due August 21. Space is limited.