ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT: There is a need to increase physician awareness about the results and clinical applicability of major glaucoma clinical trials.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: At the conclusion of the conference, the meeting attendee will be able to: (1) Recognize risk factors that place patients at highest risk for progression from ocular hypertension to primary open-angle glaucoma; (2) Determine which patients with open-angle glaucoma are more likely to benefit from initial or early surgical treatment; (3) Better understand the risks and benefits of glaucoma implant surgery versus trabeculectomy with mitomycin in previously operated eyes.

FACULTY DISCLOSURES

It is the policy of Yale School of Medicine, Continuing Medical Education, to ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all its educational programs. All faculty participating as speakers in these programs are required to disclose any relevant financial relationship(s) they (or spouse or partner) have with a commercial interest that benefits the individual in any financial amount that has occurred within the past 12 months; and the opportunity to affect the content of CME about the products or services of the commercial interests. The Center for Continuing Medical Education will ensure that any conflicts of interest are resolved before the educational activity occurs.

This conference is not the recipient of any corporate support.
