“Refugee Medicine: A Local Lens into Global Health”

Date: May 11, 2017 Time: 8:30-9:30am

Location: Fitkin Auditorium

Course Director/Host: Vincent Quagliarello, MD

There is no corporate support for this activity

This course will fulfill the licensure requirement set forth by the State of Connecticut

ACCREDITATION:

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

TARGET AUDIENCE:

Attending physicians, house staff, fellows, medical students, PA's

NEEDS ASSESSMENT:

Clinicians frequently provide care to refugees who have been resettled in the United States. Clinicians therefore need knowledge of medical and psychosocial disorders that are prevalent among resettled refugees, and of strategies to provide appropriate health care to this patient population.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

1. Analyze recent trends in global refugee migration.
2. Characterize the medical and psychiatric conditions prevalent in a resettled refugee population.
3. Identify strategies to meet the health needs of refugee patients.

DESIGNATION STATEMENT

The Yale School of Medicine designates this live activity for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should only claim the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
